

You may see him as he stumbles down the highway
You may see him as he's passing in the night
If you see him as he lumbers on his way into your past
Take a good look cause he'll soon be out of sight

You may ask him where he makes his destination
You may ask him for a minute if you dare
If you ask him for the reasons for his actions listen hard
They're very vague but none-the-less they're there

You may want him just to listen to your story
You may want him just to let you be his friend
If you want him just to make time on his way to fit you in
You're dreamin' cause he'll soon be round the bend

You may love him out of utter desperation
You may love him cause of reasons you can't name
Yes and if at first you think that you don't love him think again
And you will find you love him just the same