

LEFTY'S song to the tune of "Good Hearted Woman" by Waylon Jennings and Willie Nelson

- - Way back when I was a young man - - - - just a kid, actually,
- - - My sister had this boyfriend, he was - - six years older than me.
- - He drove cars and motorcycles, so he be-came a role model, naturally.
- And, if you know me you may know here that I'm speakin' about the late and great Lefty!
- - He had always somethin' goin', somethin' doin', always someplace new to go.
- - If not some new race to race in, some new club, some new place with some new show.
- - And it never was a matter of just getting from Point A to that point B,
- - No, just gettin' there was at least half the fun, when you went with old Lefty.

CHORUS:

- And, no it never was a matter of just getting from point A to some point B.
- No, it was all about the rider there - - - - when you rode with old Lefty.
- - Yes, and all along the way there, makin' new friends and collecting memories.
- - And no matter where he was, where he was was a - good place to be.
- - He was often out at work in his garage there with the spray cans and the wheels.
- Although he wasn't always out there, sometimes he would go into the house for meals.
- Or down to Pintos or to Holeczys or to Schulers where he chose his time to pass
But you know, for all that time he spent there hangin' out, I never once saw him buy gas.

REPEAT CHORUS

- Now there was another talent [besides general mechanical genius] where he had the edge;
- He was a master - a wizard - an artist with a crowbar and a sledge
- When it was time to fix the bathroom, Oh, he fixed it, sure enough, and totally.
- - - Another job well done by our friend and super hero, Lefty.

REPEAT CHORUS

Repeat last line of chorus

then:

And when I die I'm goin' ta fly across that golden sky and go and see Lefty.
